

LANGLEY VOTES

Shelly Jan, Conservative Educator, age 54

Shelly Jan is a fighter who knows what hard work is all about; at only five feet she was a high school starting guard, and was part of a championship team.

She attended university graduating with a bachelor of science degree, and then obtained a master's degree in Education.

As a teacher, Jan became involved in the teacher's union, gaining experience and practical knowledge in the education sector, health and safety, negotiating contracts, and policy and constitutional development. She has worked with seniors and young offenders in healthcare, developed programs, and participated in other outreach to youth, children, those living in poverty, and homelessness.

Jan continues to mentor and empower women, encouraging them to rise to decision-making positions where they can make a difference.

Bill Masse, Green Retired economist, age not provided

I am retired after a 30-year career as an economist at Department of Fisheries and Oceans.

My wife, Kathy, and I have lived in Langley for 22 years.

I was BC Green policy chair from 2014 to 2017.

I stepped down from that role to organize a strong Green team on the ground in Langley.

In retirement, I've been active in the community.

I'm a past member and vice-president of the Langley Community Chorus, I'm currently vice-president of the Langley Performing Arts Society, a director of the Triple A Senior Housing Society, and I'm involved with the Langley Field Naturalists and the Climate Crisis Langley Action Partners.

Kathy and I have 10 grandchildren, the joy of our lives.

Andrew Mercier, NDP Lawyer, age 35

Langley is the community I grew up in – I attended Simonds & Blacklock Elementaries and Langley Secondary School.

Brought up by a mother who worked in healthcare, I understand the importance of having a strong healthcare sector – I want to make sure the folks here have the support they need.

After moving away for a few years to obtain my law degree,

I've since settled down with my wife and young daughter.

Today, this community is diverse and younger than ever.

In just the past three years with the BC NDP we have seen more support come to Langley than we had with the previous 16 years of Liberal government.

Langley needs a voice that will represent it as we continue to grow.

Mary Polak, Liberal Incumbent MLA, age 52

Mary Polak was first elected as the MLA for Langley in 2005. She has held many ministerial portfolios including environment, transportation, and health.

Locally, Polak has delivered significant provincial investments to Langley such as the new LMH emergency department, new Langley hospice building, Langley Lodge expansion, Langley Youth Hub, Gateway of Hope, and Rapid Bus at Carvolth.

In 2016, Polak organized a well attended townhall resulting in the establishment of an Intensive Case Management Team to work with individuals struggling with homelessness, mental health, and addiction.

She grew up in Cloverdale and attended Langley Community Music School. She lives with her daughter (and some felines) in Langley City and can regularly be found on outings around Langley with her 91-year-old father.
